

Governor Timothy M. Kaine signed the computer Recovery and Recycling Bill introduced by Delegate Kenneth R. Plum.

Computer Recycling

Recycling your old computer just got easier as a result of legislation I sponsored in the 2008 session of the General Assembly. Under the new law, computer manufacturers are required to provide free recycling for their computers. Dell has already established a program with Goodwill Industries to take any brand of computers, scrub the hard drives, sell usable machines, and recycle components and materials from older machines. Goodwill Industries has donation centers at:

22405 Enterprise Street
Sterling, VA 20164
703.444.5186

8014 Sudley Road
Manassas, VA 20109
703.551.3200

Another way to recycle your computer is to drop it off on scheduled days at PC Recycler at 4005 Westfax Drive, Suite A, Chantilly. They have a machine that demolishes hard drives. Go to www.pcrecycler.net for more information and a schedule of drop-off days.

For other recycling sites go to www.deq.virginia.gov. Click on "Programs" and select "Recycling and Litter Prevention."
